Landsec is connected to Scotland through our continued investment in both Glasgow and Edinburgh, and has ingrained us within the communities in which we support. ”

From Buchanan Galleries and Buchanan Street in the heart of Glasgow - to Fountain Park in Edinburgh - we've been investing in and supporting Scotland's towns and cities for decades.

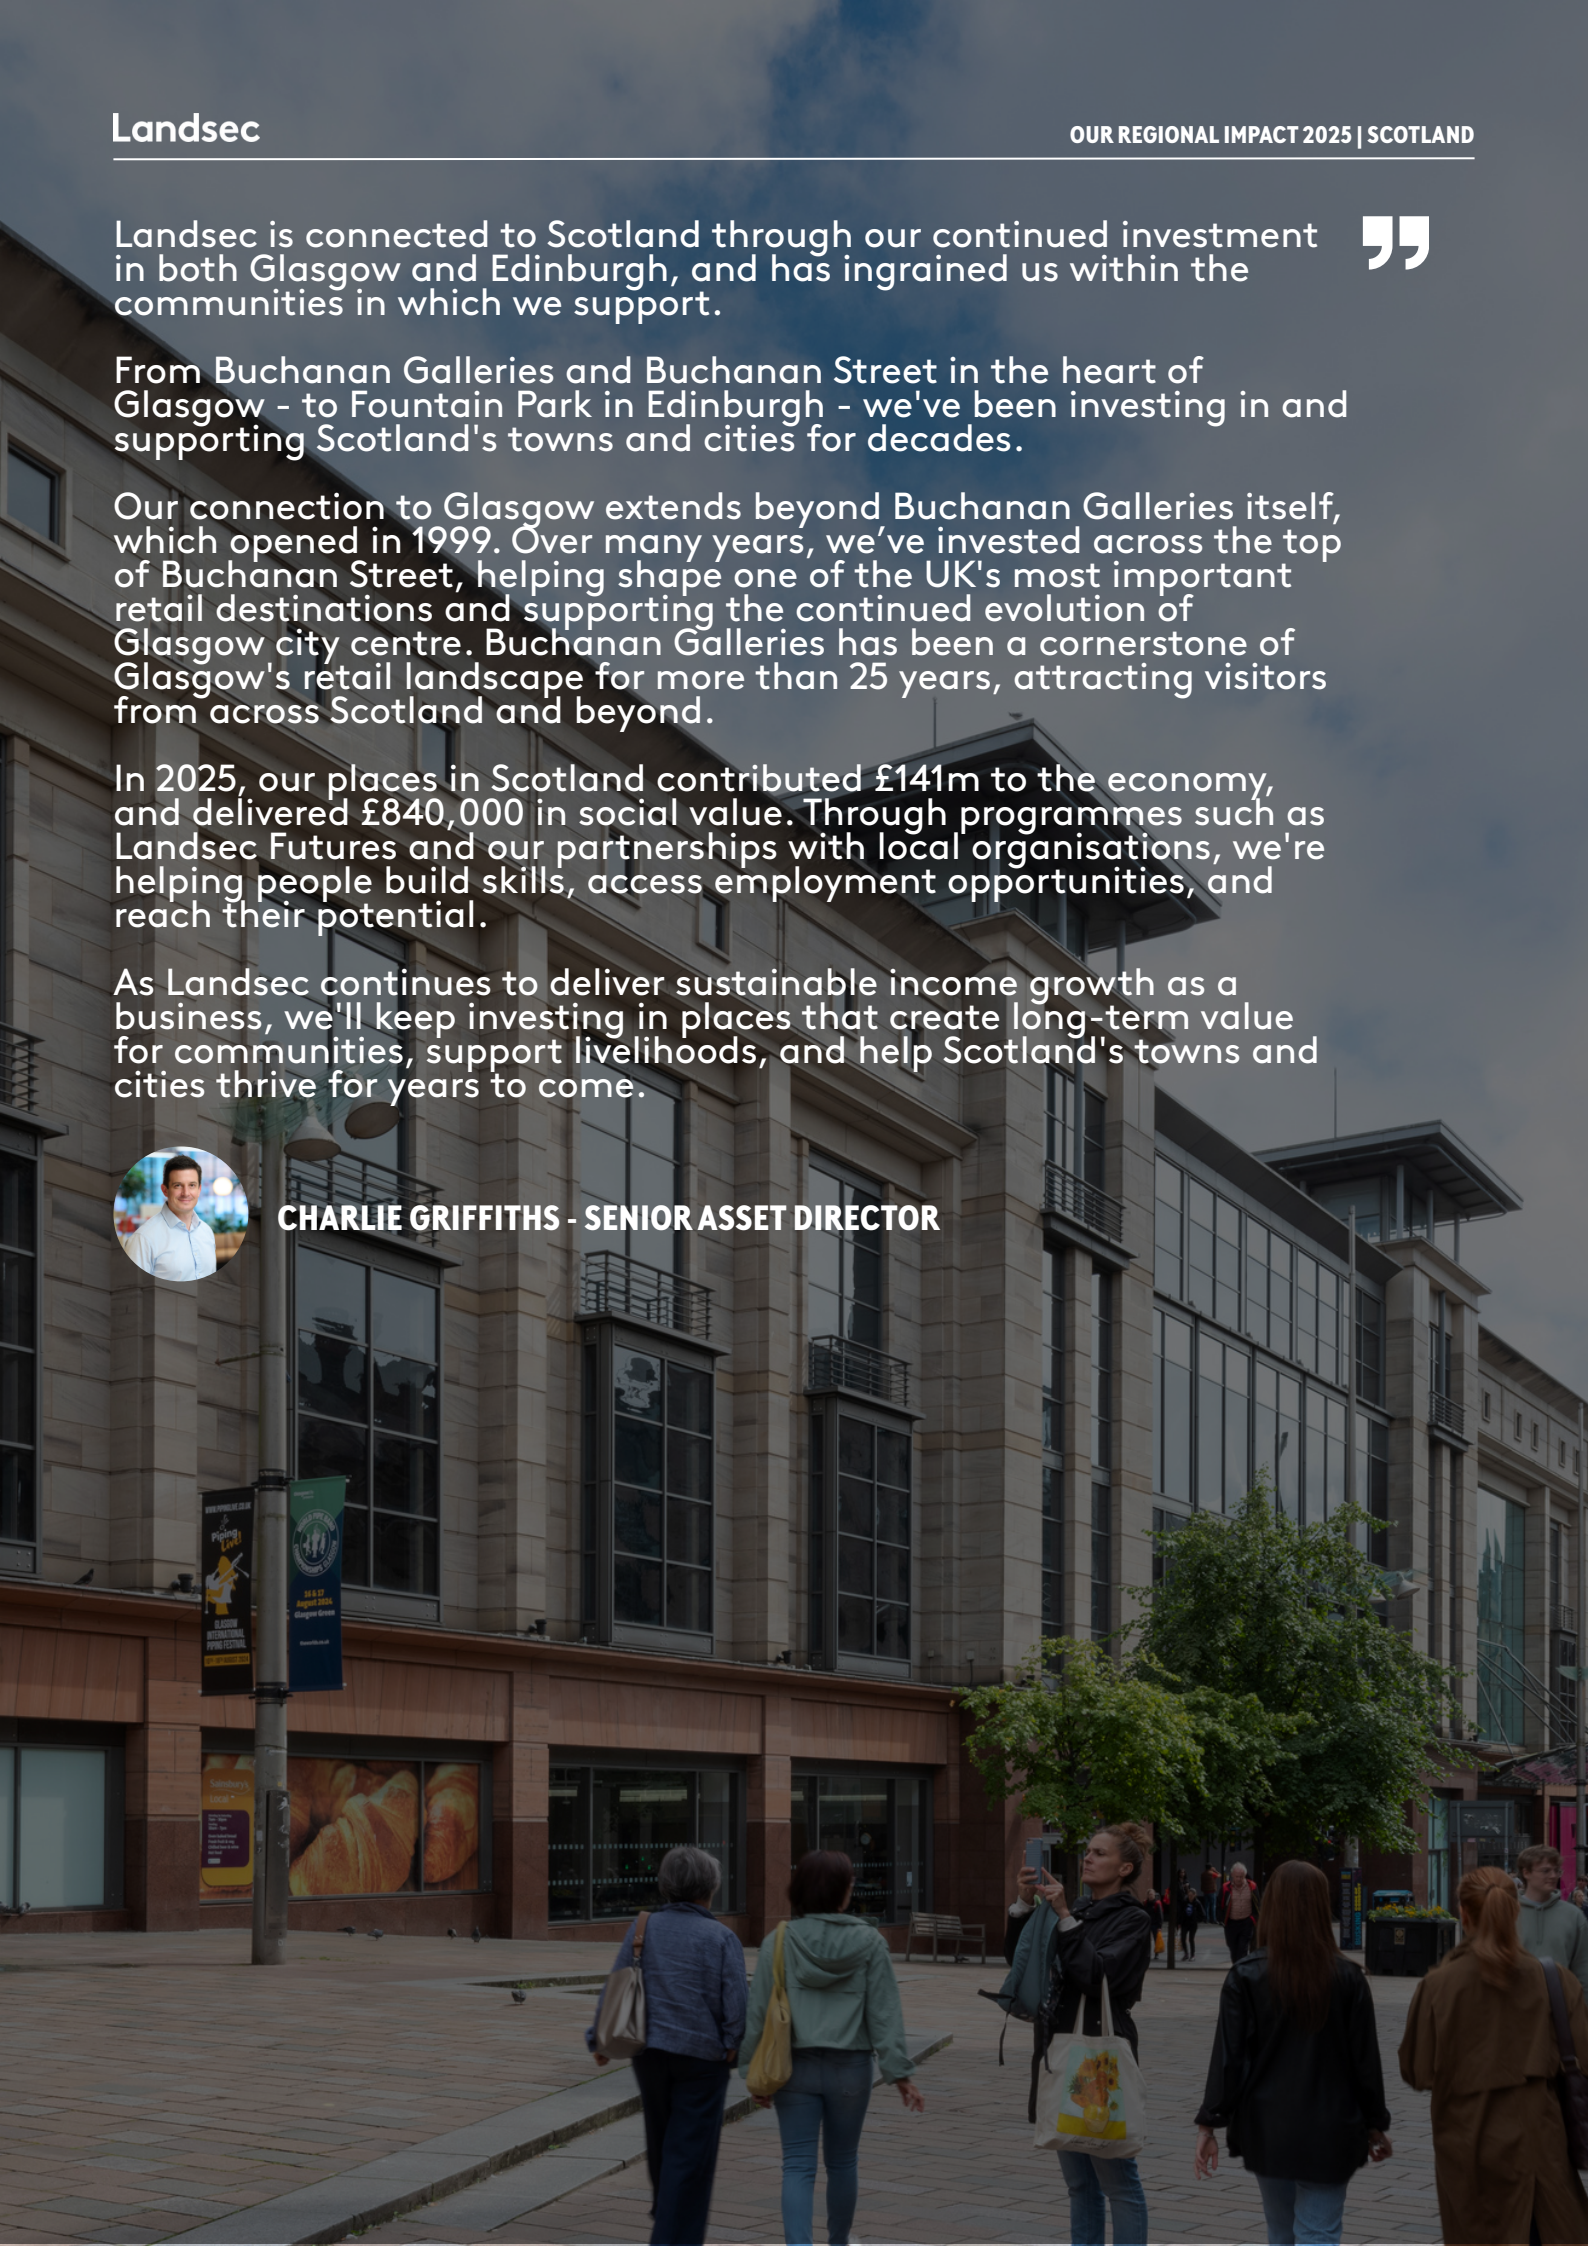

Our connection to Glasgow extends beyond Buchanan Galleries itself, which opened in 1999. Over many years, we've invested across the top of Buchanan Street, helping shape one of the UK's most important retail destinations and supporting the continued evolution of Glasgow city centre. Buchanan Galleries has been a cornerstone of Glasgow's retail landscape for more than 25 years, attracting visitors from across Scotland and beyond.

In 2025, our places in Scotland contributed £141m to the economy, and delivered £840,000 in social value. Through programmes such as Landsec Futures and our partnerships with local organisations, we're helping people build skills, access employment opportunities, and reach their potential.

As Landsec continues to deliver sustainable income growth as a business, we'll keep investing in places that create long-term value for communities, support livelihoods, and help Scotland's towns and cities thrive for years to come.
